

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A first waveguide and a second waveguide are aligned by applying an alignment dot on end surfaces of the cores of first and second waveguides. The alignment dots are positioned in close proximity to one another, and are melted
5 together. Surface tension pulls the first and second waveguides into alignment.